

Sketch A shows eight-year-old William's room as it was just before his loving mother put him to bed for his afternoon nap, and Sketch B shows the room as it was an hour later, after she's finished her meditation and reported to Sergeant Foxy that William was missing, Foxy made a preliminary examination, concluded that William had been kidnapped, and listed the following suspects.

- William's loving father, who was having a custody fight with William's loving mother and had threatened to abduct his son.
- Martha Soul, who had been Martha's loving nurse for the past several years, but had had to leave a week ago because William's loving mother could no longer afford a nurse;
- Mr. Green, the gardener who had been working here for the last three months;
- William's loving mother.

Which one of the four do you think Foxy should accuse?
